

Day 2 of Drama Week

Today is the second day of Al Muna Drama Week! After yesterday the children were so eager to start today's workshops. Today the children will be doing another activity from yesterday but I'm pretty sure they're just as excited.

These children are making props for the play. With plates and tissue paper they are going to turn out just great. Look out for these in the play. These children had lots of fun and practiced their art skills- cutting, pasting, and drawing. I'm sure they had tons of fun when doing this and learning at the same time.

These children are painting for decoration. They used many shades of the same color which is an amazing skill. They had to make it bright and accurate so that it stands out from a distance. They also had to do a challenging design for effect. I think they enjoyed this.

These children are practicing music. They used lots of instruments for nice effect. They had to make sure it was loud, clear, and matched the scene. The children used lots of enthusiasm and made it perfect. I think they voted this as one of the top activities.

The second day of Drama Week is over and the children cannot wait until the third day. In my opinion I think they will barely sleep tonight.
