

Al Muna blog day 3

Today on the Al Muna blog we will talk about how children have been practising in full uniform on stage for the performance with all props. To our surprise we found out there will be 2 part to the performance, Arabic and English.

The acting group gathered on the playground for their first proper test of the play and it was well organised and constructed. Moreover, the actors said they were very happy and liked the play music and their roles.

The prop creating group has now been creating the fascinating backgrounds of the play. They are well painted and the skills they have been learning in drama week were the effects of the paint brushes and different ways to stroke the brush over the sheet to create different effects.

During today, the choir has been singing the songs Copenhagen, Inch Worm and more. They sound amazing as they learn to sing every day better and better per day. This is a very well designed performance.
